

1. Antibodies made against bacterial adhesins, pili, and glycoalyces defend against bacteria by:

- A. Blocking the release of bacterial exotoxins.
- B. Preventing bacterial PAMPs from binding to PRRs.
- C. Preventing phagocytosis.
- D. Blocking the attachment of bacteria to host cells.